Boston, July 5.—The immense grain elevator of the Boston & Maine Railroad company, one of the largest in the world, together with three of the company's freight houses on piers I and 2. Mystic wharf. Charlestown, were burned tonight, entailing losses of over $1.000,000. Three lives are supposed to have been lost. Thirty-live sailors of the Allan steamer Austria, which was lying at pier I, jumped overboard to save themselves from the flames, which had communicated to their vessel. Olga Olsen, boatswainsmate, James Flynn, threman, and Patrick N. Meehan, fiftenan, are the supposed victims. Flynn's body has been recovered. Most of the crew swam to shore, but eleven of their number required hospital attention. Before the fire could be gotten under control all the upper works had been burned. The fire started during a heavy thunderstorm, when a boit of lightning struck one of the freight houses in which was stored a quantity of hay. The flames spread rapidly to adjoining buildings, including the elevator, and the larger part of the fire apparatus of the city was summoned to save other property. The elevator is figured at $400,000. Losses on the freight houses, their contents, the pier and the steamer Austria will easily swell the total to more than $1,000,000.

Six hundred and twenty-seven persons are missing, it is reported. The contingent now being cared for at Aberdeen consists of tweive passengers, the third mate of the Norge, the quartermaster, a steward, a lamp trimmer and one of the crew.

At Mercy of the Ocean.

They drifted at the mercy of the Atlantic for six days. When their water and food was gone, and when the occupants were almost too exhausted to hope, the boat hove in sight. This was on July 4 when the boat was about thirty miles off St. Kilda. Those rescued had eked out an existence on two biscuits per day. When they started from the ill-fated ship there was only one smail cask of fresh water in the boat. They weathered a gale and continued as nest they might, striving to reach the coast of Scotiand against the heavy seas. From stretches of life-belts they constructed a crude sail. The men had scarcely strength enough to hold the oars.

When the survivors were dragged on the trawler the fishermen were obliged to forcibly prevent them from eating and drinking too much.
